Vie is the first restaurant in Western Springs to serve alcohol since prohibition, offering guests a unique experience of urban fine dining in a cozy village setting. Located near the Metra station, Vie attracts food enthusiasts from all over Chicagoland. The intimate dining room, set in a two-story red brick building, provides a welcoming ambiance that captures Norman Rockwell's Americana. Chef Virant's culinary creations are influenced by the seasons, local harvests, and international flavors. The menu showcases artisanal foods, local farms, and specialty ingredients from around the world, offering a Seasonal Contemporary American cuisine with a European twist. Virant's focus on high-quality ingredients elevates classic dishes to a whole new level.
