Scott's BBQ in Cochran, GA, has garnered a reputation as a beloved spot for barbecue lovers, boasting tender brisket and unique vinegar-based sauces. Many patrons praise the restaurant's friendly atmosphere and attentive service, creating a welcoming environment. However, recent visits have highlighted a decline in food quality, with undercooked chicken and inconsistent rib preparation receiving criticism. While sides such as mac-n-cheese and green beans often disappoint, the standout brisket and memorable Brunswick stew keep diners returning. With potential talent expansion and improved consistency, Scott's could reclaim its former glory in the competitive BBQ scene.
