Tom's Bad Ass And Grill
TRAS THE NIGHT BEFORE (an)
Tras the night before (an) and all through the house
Everyone was nervous, except for my spouse.
The shutters were hung round the house all with care,
In hopes in the morning it will would be there.
The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of spaghetti models danced in their heads.
And me in my night gown, and hubs in his cap,
Had just had some pizza and a coke that was flat,
When outside the house there arose such a clatter,
We sprang from our chairs to see what was the matter.
Away to the window jumping over our clutter,
But we couldn't see equal because of the shutters
With snacks in hand, and a go-bag all ready,
We retired to our room, hoping our roof did stay steady,
With a silent prayer said for all the residents of our state,
We will hunker down no choice now but to wait.
