Café Berlin has been serving authentic German cuisine on Capitol Hill since 1985. It occupies the ground floor of three townhouses, with front yards repurposed as a Biergarten for al fresco dining. Inside, guests will find a welcoming small bar and two cozy dining rooms. Conveniently located close to Union Station and the U.S. Capitol, the restaurant is a popular spot for politicians, congressional staffers, tourists, and locals alike. The chefs, well-versed in German cuisine, prepare traditional dishes with a lighter touch. In addition to the regular menu, seasonal offerings include fresh asparagus in the spring, light fare in the summer, Bavarian dishes during Oktoberfest, and wild game in the winter. Don't miss the freshly made desserts like apple strudel, black forest cake, and decadent cream tortes. Wash it down with a selection of imported German beers and wines at the bar.
