It opened in 1984, but is set up like an old style hamburger stand. You can order at the outside window or at a counter, just inside the door. The building was opened as Jiffy Burger by sisters Merry and Sue in the 1980s. It is still operated by Merry Van Der Giesen and her daughter. The dining room is decorated with wall displays devoted to 1950 's stars, with nearly half dedicated to Elvis Presley and Marilyn Monroe. The menu offers a variety of ice cream dishes, sandwiches, and baskets, with a selection of side dishes such as fried cheese curds, onion rings, and more. Prices are reasonable, making it an affordable dining option. Visit Jiffy Burger for a nostalgic and delicious experience.
