Quesadilla is thick cornmeal flatbread from the Pinar del Rio region of El Salvador, similar to the Venezuelan arepa. It is stuffed with one or more of the following ingredients: cheese (usually a viscous cheese called queso fresco that is very common in certain countries), chorizo (pork rinds), squash, refried beans, and cheese with loroco. It can also be made with a variety of ingredients such as cheese, beans, and chicharrón typically accompanied by curtido (a spicy cabbage slaw), and tomato salsa, and is traditionally prepared by hand, without the use of utensils.
